SAFETY MATTERS

To be sure that I'm safer on the Internet, I prefer to use more child friendly and safer websites so I don't come across scams, inappropriate content, violence etc. This is an example of a child friendly website Scratch. This is a more social online version of Scratch. Jr which is the one that we use at school. Scratch is where you can access projects and games made by people while staying safe.

Most people have games or socials these days however, it is important, necessary and meaningful that we stay safe. Ways to avoid trouble is be mindful who you are friends with because you don't know who is behind the screen. The smarter decision is to just avoid making online friends completely.

Gotta be safe online

All the time! ✨ ✨

To stay safe online, I use an anti-virus software to protect from viruses. For example, if a email contains a virus my firewall will detect it. Also to stay safe online, I use a PayPal account to purchase items online. As an adult it is very important to stay safe and not fall for scams because adults like myself hold accounts with money, personal details and further information.

To keep my personal accounts secure I always make sure not to use repetitive passwords. I regularly change them and I make sure never to share my passwords with other people. This is because I can't necessarily trust everyone especially people online so it's best to keep them to myself.
