

"A day out to remember forever!"

Review date: 17th September 2018

I visited the Natural History Museum as part of my school topic. Conveniently, the monumental building is split into zones: The Red Zone, The Green Zone and The Blue Zone (which were the zones most relevant to us). I would recommend getting a map because, as I mentioned, the place is HUGE! My favourite part was the earthquake simulator which makes you feel like you were in the Japan earthquake. This location will be perfect for 10+ year olds. A place well worth visiting!

Reviewed by: Kaden Cartledge