

"FACTS! FACTS! FACTS"

Review date: 17th September 2018

Recently I visited the Natural History Museum on a school trip as part of our topic (evolution). The museum is split into zones and has helpful maps dotted around. I recommend using these if you don't want to get lost. Because the museum is MONUMENTALL, I suggest visiting more than once. Unfortunately, the interactive T-Rex has been taken down for maintenance and was one of the reasons we came. Despite this minor slip, I still had a great time. This place is great for children- and adults alike. A place worth visiting!

Reviewed by: Kofi Agyenim-Boateng 10 years of age