

"HISTORICALLY MESMERISING!"

Recently, I visited The National History Museum last week on a school trip as part of our topic on Evolution*. This monumental museum is split into zones (red, orange, green and blue) so I suggest using the maps located around the mansion. Despite the fact the T-Rex wasn't working, I still enjoyed the rest of the Dinosaur exhibit; in the Blue Zone. Something not to be missed is the mind blowing blue whale, a real life size model! This museum has informative facts and numerous interactive displays. Wow! This place is a dream and I highly recommend it for families. I suggest spending over 4hr there, because there's lots and lots to see. I LOVED IT
