

"An astonishing day out!"

Review date: 17th September 2018

I visited the Natural History Museum last week for a school trip and it was amazing despite the fact that the interactive t-rex was not there. Unfortunately dippy the dinosaur was not there either. My personal favourite area was the blue zone and mammal's exhibit and the red zone. In the green zone was the creepy crawlies section but it was not that interesting. I would recommend it for adults and children aged 6+.

Reviewed by: Zac Ptak